

ACTIVITY 1 - Silly Words Matching

This silly book made me say a silly word! Piggie chose “Bananas,” and because it was in his word bubble, I had to say it because Raggedy Auntie loves to read out loud! Do you recognize any of the words below? They are words that I find to be pretty silly sounding. If you can, match the word with its definition and its picture!

WORD	DEFINITION	PICTURE
Dirigible	A form of bowling, played with ten wooden pins at which a ball is bowled to knock them down
Lallygag	An umbrella
Tenpin	An airship
Bumbershoot	To move slowly or to be lazy

ACTIVITY 2 - Making Your Own Silly Words

Hey, who says you can't make up your own words? I love doing that! What word would you call these things:

_____ : The feeling you get when you aren't sure if you passed a test or not

_____ : The time between asleep and awake when you know what's happening but it seems a little weird

_____ : Laughing when things are scary or you are nervous

_____ : The feeling you get when someone else's story just goes on and on and you can't convince them to stop.

_____ : The feeling that you have definitely eaten something that will upset your stomach.

_____ : The type of afternoon that is cold, rainy, and perfect for reading
